(version française ci-dessous)

Dear Ambassador

We would like to draw your attention to the next meeting of the OECD Global Parliamentary Network (GPN) which will take place for a day and a half on 11-12 October 2017 at the OECD Conference Centre in Paris, just after the Secretary-General's annual address to the Parliamentary Assembly of the Council of Europe on 10 October in Strasbourg. These two events are traditionally held back-to-back to facilitate parliamentary participation in both gatherings.

GPN meetings offer an opportunity for parliamentarians to exchange views with their peers and with OECD experts on a range of key issues. The meeting on 11 October will cover several key areas of the OECD's work. A draft programme will be circulated in the coming weeks.

We would be grateful if you could please share this information with parliamentary representatives from your country, as we would like to attract a high-level of MPs to this October event. As always, staffers are also very welcome to attend.

Our registrar will be available at summer. In the meantime, parliamentarians and staffers can indicate their interest to attend by writing to parliamentarians@oecd.org.

For more information on the OECD Global Parliamentary Network and for an updated list of OECD events with parliamentarians, please refer to www.oecd.org/parliamentarians.

If you have any specific queries, your office may wish to contact Madeleine Orvelius (madeleine.orvelius@oecd.org; Tel: +33 (0) 1 45 24 93 26) and Silvia Terrón (silvia.terron@oecd.org; Tel: +33 (0) 1 45 24 95 72).

Thank you in advance for your collaboration.

Madame, Monsieur l'Ambassadeur,

Nous souhaitons attirer votre attention sur la prochaine réunion du Réseau parlementaire mondial de l'OCDE, qui se tiendra les 11 et 12 octobre 2017 au Centre de conférences de l'OCDE à Paris, au lendemain de l'intervention annuelle du Secrétaire général de l'OCDE auprès de l'Assemblée parlementaire du Conseil de l'Europe à Strasbourg. Ces deux événements auront lieu consécutivement afin de faciliter la participation des parlementaires aux deux rencontres.

Les réunions du Réseau parlementaire offrent aux membres des Parlements l'opportunité d'échanger avec leurs pairs ainsi qu'avec des experts de l'OCDE sur un vaste éventail de sujets d'importance. La réunion du 11 octobre couvrira plusieurs domaines clés du travail de l'OCDE. Un programme provisoire sera communiqué dans les prochaines semaines.

Nous vous saurions gré de bien vouloir partager ces informations avec les parlementaires de votre pays afin d'assurer la participation d'un grand nombre d'entre eux à cette réunion. Les membres du personnel des parlements sont également les bienvenus. L'inscription en ligne sera ouverte fin août. D'ici là, nous invitons les parlementaires et membres du personnel à nous faire part de leur intérêt pour cette réunion en nous écrivant à l'adresse : parliamentarians@oecd.org

Pour plus de renseignements sur le Réseau parlementaire mondial de l'OCDE et sur les activités de l'OCDE avec les parlementaires, veuillez consulter : www.oecd.org/parliamentarians.

Pour toute information supplémentaire, veuillez contacter Madeleine Orvelius (madeleine.orvelius@oecd.org; Tel: +33 (0) 1 45 24 93 26) ou Silvia Terrón (silvia.terron@oecd.org; Tel: +33 (0) 1 45 24 95 72).

Nous vous remercions par avance de votre collaboration et vous prions, Madame, Monsieur l'Ambassadeur, d'agréer l'assurance de notre plus haute considération.

09.00 - 10.15 Bridging divides - from diagnosis to action

A conversation with Angel Gurría, OECD Secretary-General

10.15 - 11.30 Launch of the OECD Digital Economy Outlook (session open to media)

Opening Remarks by Angel Gurría, OECD Secretary-General
Dirk Pilat, Deputy Director, Science, Technology and Innovation

Discussant: Janine Alm Ericson, Member of Parliament, Sweden

Digital transformation is under way, creating new opportunities and affecting organisations, jobs and lives in ways never seen before. Digital opportunities abound, but governments must ensure they are equally harnessed by all countries, firms and individuals. To navigate the digital transformation, governments need to review legacy frameworks, embracing digital innovation and mitigating potential social cost. They also must step up efforts to empower people with the skills needed to succeed in a digital world. A new sense of urgency to marshal digital development for productivity and more inclusive and sustainable prosperity has pushed digital issues high on national and global policy agendas. In this context, the OECD has started to undertake a large cross-cutting project focused on making the transformation work for growth and well-being.

This session explores key insights from the new OECD Digital Economy Outlook 2017, which provides a holistic overview of converging trends, policy developments and data on both the supply and demand sides of the digital economy, and illustrates how the digital transformation is affecting economies and societies.

11.30 - 11.45 Coffee break

11.45 - 12.50 Integration of migrants - Case studies

Claire Charbit, Senior Project Manager, Regional Development Policy, Centre for Entrepreneurship, SMEs, Local Development and Tourism

Jonathan Chaloff, Administrator, Migration Policy Division, Directorate for Employment, Labour and Social Affairs

Anne-Sophie Senner, Migration Analyst, Directorate for Employment, Labour and Social Affairs

Discussants: Scott Simms, Member of Parliament, Canada and Güler Turan, Member of Flemish Parliament, Belgium

Integrating immigrants and their children is a major policy concern for many OECD countries. Immigrants represent a sizeable segment of our population: more than one in five persons in the OECD is either foreign-born or native-born with at least one immigrant parent - and this share is expected to grow further. Yet, the outcomes of immigrants lag behind those with native-born parents in all major areas of integration, including the labour market, education, and social inclusion. In addition, immigrants tend to gather in urban and capital city-regions: two-thirds of the foreign-born population in the OECD live in urban areas on average, while asylum seekers seem to be more evenly distributed through dispersal mechanisms. Tackling barriers to integration is essential to ensure social cohesion and the acceptance of further immigration by the host country population. Achieving it needs to adopt a territorial approach to take into account the variety of local situations and build appropriate coordination mechanisms with local governments, in charge of 40% of public spending and 60% of public investment on average in the OECD. This session will draw on key lessons from the OECD's work on integration and summarise the main challenges and good policy practices to support the lasting integration of immigrants and their children. It will provide parliamentarians with facts and evidence on integration outcomes, as well as a number of good practice policy approaches. It will focus on the specific integration challenges faced by persons who migrate for family reasons – the single most important motive for migration in OECD countries – and on good practices to manage integration at the local level.

Room Roger Ockrent, Château de la Muette

14.00 - 16.00 Public sector innovation and co-creation

Marco Daglio, Project Manager, Observatory for Public Sector Innovation (OPSI)

This interactive sessions looks into the role parliamentarians can have in public sector innovation. By working in small groups, parliamentarians will be able to experiment with new tools to analyse complex issues and reflect on their role as drivers of policy change. The group works will highlight how to frame problems in a new way, how to use “living personas” in a problem session and how to initiate a systemic innovation process.

Meeting of the OECD Parliamentary Group on Integrity and Transparency (open to all participants):
Introductory remarks - Overview on transparency

Janos Bertok, Head of Division, Public Sector Integrity, Directorate for Public Governance

09.10 – 10.30

Budget transparency and measuring budget transparency in parliaments

Ronnie Downes, Deputy Head of Division, Budgeting and Public Expenditures, Directorate for Public Governance
Scherie Nicol, Policy Analyst, Budgeting and Public Expenditures, Directorate for Public Governance

Budget transparency brings many benefits for citizens and for society, but putting it into practice can sometimes appear as a daunting task. This session will highlight the Budget Transparency Toolkit - developed by the OECD with the participation of the Global Initiative for Fiscal Transparency (GIFT) Network - and the practical steps that it provides for supporting openness, integrity and accountability in public financial management. Furthermore, it will shine a spotlight on the specific role that parliaments have in ensuring budget transparency, highlighting emerging good practices. It will be followed by a discussion on measuring budget transparency in parliaments.

10.30 – 10.45

Coffee break

10.45 – 12.15 Participatory budgeting: Some key challenges and questions for debate

Ronnie Downes, Deputy Head of Division, Budgeting and Public Expenditures, Directorate for Public Governance

Stav Shafir, Member of Parliament, Israel

While proposing and implementing the budget are the legal duty of the executive, strengthening the involvement and participation of citizens and civil society can increase responsiveness, efficiency, impact and trust. Heightened citizen engagement also reduces opportunities for corruption and strengthens the culture of open democracy. This session will use country examples to identify the opportunities for participative approaches across the budget cycle and highlight some of the key challenges and questions for debate.

12.15 – 12.30 Meeting of the OECD Global Parliamentary Network - Closing remarks

Anthony Gooch, Director of Public Affairs and Communications, OECD
